November 10th CTAA Presentation RON ICE

Ron Ice is a photography "hobbyist" who grew up in Saint Jo where he graduated from High School in 1965. He earned Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts degrees in U.S. History and Political Science from Texas A&M/Commerce. His college time was interrupted by four years of service in the U.S. Army. He taught High School, Community and University College prior to changing careers.

Ron became interested in photography as a potential hobby during his second career but did not pursue it actively until he retired. The Denton community in which he and his wife now live in has an active Photography Club and the "hobby" became a passion and a never-ending learning process. He believes the most meaningful new skill he has been learning is "first to look, and then to see", which opened an entirely new way of observing the World. The great photographer, Ansel Adams, said "You don't take a photograph, You make a photograph." Ron is searching for new Creative Paths to "make photographs."
